Excellency, the Governor, has suggested that the rum probe committee hear two witnesses before it makes its decision.

"I have been trying for four weeks to have this committee hear two witnesses, but they have refused to allow me to see the evidence of Mr. Dickinson's witnesses. Apparently they in power at the State House have done all within their power to confuse the public in this rum probe and apparently

PRAGUE 'REDS' CALL OFF MARCH; WATCH FIRE DEPT.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 7 (AP)—Communists turning out to stage a "Red" day march yesterday, learned become silent spectators at a parade of the first department. After the Communist had also announced the city with appeals to sympathizers to join in great demonstrations, the authorities were armed with rifles and revolvers and stationed at strategic points. The government tried a steel march around the country in protest against the parade to disrupt the plans. Then thousands of the city marched through the city carrying their five axes.

MISS EARHART IS GUEST OF N. Y. WOMEN

New York, July 7 (AP)—Amelia Earhart's second day back in her hometown began today. It was after it when the "Lady Lindy" of the Friendship Circle for Women arrived in her hometown at the Biltmore. Her companion, Wilmer Stults and Lew Gordon, had embarked long before, on the first trip, who yesterday received New York's first kiss in appreciation of her transatlantic flight, upon her arrival in the city.

By 11:30 Mrs. Earhart was ready for another strenuous day, which was begun as most of her days have been for the last two months, with the rise and glare of photographers.

At noon "Lady Lindy" was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Women's City Club. Following this she planned to visit her friends, where she will distribute hundreds of bouquets of flowers she has received since her arrival yesterday morning.

Back at the Biltmore this afternoon, Miss Earhart planned to receive personal friends only. In the evening she will attend a performance of "Show Boat" and will spend tomorrow at the Westchester home of George Palmer Putnam, explorer and publisher, who helped finance the flight of the Friendship Circle.

Loving Lou and Anne Make Crowd Happy

New York, July 7 (AP)—"Holding hands" is the story of love's young dream today in the case of Lou (Slim) Gordon, Earhart plane mechanic, and his sweetheart, pretty Anne Dugan of Waltham. "Holding hands" and planning an early wedding, and receiving the best wishes of folks.

For Miss Anne was the first to meet Slim when he landed from the President Roosevelt. It was a tender greeting, but Anne, under everything, it made a momentary happy joy to see him live so happy.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1928

Amelia Earhart, Boston aviatrix, waves her greeting from the liner Roosevelt on her arrival in New York. Monday she returns home for Boston's welcome.

Photo shows the fliers' auto in the parade up Broadway on their way from the pier to the City Hall where they were welcomed officially. Arrow points to Miss Earhart and her two heroic companions, whose picturesque dash across the sea accomplished for her what no other woman had succeeded in doing—being the first of her sex to fly Atlantic. New York's welcome gave the three victorious fliers an inkling of what they may expect when they return to Boston. The Hub and Medford have perfected extensive plans for the most rousing welcome in their histories. Governor Fuller, on behalf of the State, will formally welcome them, too.

BOSTON FLIERS HAPPY IN GLORIOUS WELCOME

HOW GOTHAM TOOK THE TRIO TO HER HEART IN GREAT WELCOME

This photo gives some idea of the cordial New York welcome. Never has a woman received such thunderous applause as that accorded to Miss Earhart as thousands banked in City Hall square cheered. Other thousands greeted her and her two companions all along the line of their triumphal procession from the pier to City Hall. Monday the fliers get Boston's welcome.

Hank Taylor to the Rescue
Now we know that Joseph P. Kennedy, new high commissioner in the Keith-Albee forces, is a man of grand parts and keen vision. One of his first acts was to pick Hank Taylor, late manager of the Majestic, from the Shuberts and set him up as the chief of the K-A interests in New England.

STAGE AND SCREEN

Drama's Costly Experiment
"The Ladder" that play of reincarnation which Edgar B. Davis, oil and colorist, has been offering free on Broadway since last Thanksgiving, is about to resume ticket-selling. Mr. Davis has parted with something like $100,000 to keep "The Ladder" before the public. Now for the profits!

TALKING PICTURES NOW GIVE VOICE TO PHOTOPLAYS IN LOCAL TEMPLES OF CINEMA

NOW, PAPA, BE GOOD! William Collier, Jr., appears to have something on the old man: Lionel Barrymore is the fathered parent. From the Warner Brothers' "The Lion and the Mouse," a talking movie. (Fenway and Washington St. Olympia)

IS IT A FAN? No, it must be a hat. Anyway we like the sunny tilt as it flares toward the pleasing lover. The young romanticists are Norma Shearer and Ralph Forbes doing their bit for "The Actress," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer adaptation of "Trelawny of the Wells." (Lew's State)

BEHOLD, PERFIDIOUS WOMAN—or something like that. The stout gentleman is Lionel Barrymore and he seems not to care very much for pretty Madge Bellamy. It's all explained in "The Play Girl," a William Fox comedy unfolding at the Keith-Albee Boston.

LOS ANGELES ROLE WON BY FAIR NORMA

By LOVELLA O. PARSONS
LOS ANGELES, July 7—"The Last of Mrs. Cheney" is really the last of that elusive lady who has had all Hollywood speculating about who would do the screen honors for her. Norma Shearer is the final choice for the role that Ina Claire created on the stage.

"MRS. CHENEY" has gone through more changes than any other play this year. First it was purchased by Joseph Schenck for Gloria Swanson. Then Gloria left and the picture was sold to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Then it was bought by the Warners. But why worry over drastic changes in the picture? John Barrymore was slated for the lead. Then, because the woman's part could not be entirely submerged, Constance Talmadge was chosen to play opposite him.

Came the day when John Barrymore suddenly decided "Mrs. Cheney" was essentially a woman's part. John Barrymore withdrew from the cast and Constance Talmadge was given the leading role.

Now Schenck has disposed of the play to M-G-M, and if Norma Shearer will play the lead, she ought to be very good as "Mrs. Cheney." Too, she has a nice sense of comedy and she wears clothes as well as any woman on the screen.

SAMUEL ORNITZ, the author of "HUNCH, PAUNCH and JOWL," has been in Hollywood for several months. Ornitz has been working on his movie. He seems to have succeeded, for now he has written an original story called "The Case of Lena Smith," which Paramount will produce, with the blonde Esther Rialson as the star.

Considering the name and that Joan Von Sternberg will direct, I think it is reasonable to assume that "The Case of Lena Smith" is written around a murder trial. What with "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "The Bellamy Trial" and other murder stories, this class of screen play continues to be more and more popular.

If Mary Pickford dared defy her public she would certainly buy "Chiquita" for herself. But Mary's public is exacting and she knows well if she tried to portray this little girl whose deeds are not the highest, there would be a howl that would echo the world. But Mary is going

Big Girls Now

NO PICTURE FAN will ever forget the scamping Lee Kins, Joan and Katherine Lee. Here's Joan Lee, who has been in the picture business since she was a child. (Lew's State)

LEE SISTERS AT SCOLLAY

In announcing the personal appearance of Joan and Katherine Lee for the coming week, the manager of the Scollay square Olympia presents a medium-sized offering of unusual attractiveness.

Popularly known as the Lee Kids, Joan and Katherine have reached an age when the title might be considered a misnomer. The two are now the movie as life tons, and have been featured players for a decade and a half. There is good authority, in fact, for stating that they have reached the voting age.

Strangely enough, despite their having worked together on the screen and in personal appearances on the stage, these two young women have differing political views. Joan favors Al Smith in the coming presidential campaign, while Katherine will cast her vote for Herbert Hoover. This is sort of a reversal of the dictum that politics make strange bedfellows.

Richard Harding Davis' story of newspaper life, "Gallagher," is a classic of the "Fourth Estate" and is one story that newspapermen read concerning their own business without ridiculing the author. For some reason it is particularly difficult to put on paper the daily workings of a newspaper office, but this story of Davis captures it with a clarity and truth.

It has been made into a motion picture by Elmer Clifton, directed by the same man who was the idea in "Rings" and is being shown this week at the Modern and Beacon theaters under the title of "Letter Ho, Gallagher!"

FILM FARE FOR NEXT WEEK

METROPOLITAN—"Ladies of the Mob," a story of the underworld with a new twist. (First run). Crime and gang play are prevalent. In the cast are Clara Bow, featured; Richard Arlen, Helen Lynch, Mary Alden, Carl Gerard, Budil Rosing, Lorraine River and James Pierce. A Paramount picture. On the stage, Frank Cambria's production, "West Point Days," and Gene Rodemich and his band.

OLYMPIA AND PENWAY—"Starting tomorrow" "The Lion and the Mouse," first of the talking movies. (First run). Film drama of modern life, adapted from Charles Klein's famous play. Lionel Barrymore and May McAvoy have the principal roles; also in the cast are William Collier, Jr., Emmett Corrigan, Jack Ackroyd and Alec Francis. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. A Warner Brothers' picture; synchronized speech by Vitaphone.

NEW BOSTON—"Starting tomorrow" "The Play Girl," with Madge Bellamy. (First run). A comedy of modern touch and tone. In the supporting cast are Johnny Mack Brown, Walter McGrath, Lionel Belmore, Thelma Hill, Anita Garvin and Harry Timbrook. Directed by Arthur Rosson. A William Fox picture. Also vaudeville.

SCOLLAY—"Hell Ship Bronson," a story of the high seas. (First run). The frank, unadorned story of late, sword, lust and love. Featured in the cast are Noah Berry and Mark Wallen Reid; the supporting list includes Reed Howes, Helen Foster, James Bradbury, Sr. and Jack Anthony. Directed by Joseph Hensberry. A Gotham picture. Also vaudeville.

MODERN AND BEACON—"Starting today" "Let 'er Go, Gallagher" (first run), adapted from a Richard Harding Davis story. In the cast are Junior Cushman, Harrison Ford and Ellen Fair. Elmer Clifton directed. A Pathé picture. Also, May McAvoy in "The Little Book" (First run). The supporting cast includes Alec Francis, Robert Fraser, Virginia Lee Corbin, John Miljan and Frances Lee. Directed by John Adolph. A Warner Brothers' picture.

ORPHEUM—"Lon Chaney in 'Laugh, Clown, Laugh'" adapted from a play of the same title by David Belasco and Tom Cushing. In the supporting cast are Bernard Siegel, Lorena Young, Clara Fitzgerald, Nils Asther and Owen Lee. Herbert Brenson directed. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. Also vaudeville.

OH! YOU VARSITY LAD, erie the exhilarated coo when William Wynn stumbles across Tall's sacred and battle scarred camp. In "Good News" now at the Majestic.

Easy Eye Tonic

FROM FAR AWAY REGIONS, Clara Bow brings her first smile into good account in "The Wolf in the Sheeps" at Mr. Clive's Copley playhouse.

OLD PLAYERS, NEW FARCE

Welcome news for the patrons of the Copley Theater is the announcement that several of Mr. Clive's favorites, including Elsie Ferguson, Edmund George, Vernon Kelso and Gerald Archer, will return to the organization with the production of Dwight Taylor's "Don't Tell George," scheduled to open on Monday evening, July 16. Miss Ferguson has been absent from the ranks for several months, Gerald Rogers and Vernon Kelso appeared more earlier in the season, while Edmund George was one of the favorites of last year's personnel. All of these have been assigned to important roles in the new comedy farce, "Don't Tell George," written by Dwight Taylor, son of the distinguished actor, Laurette Taylor.

Substitutes for Emotions in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" Just as substitutes were obtained during the war for butter, sugar and other commodities, so substitutes for the great emotions of life were desired for an auto. Through this device Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production Brenson made clever suggestions for "substitute emotions."

The young actress had never had such an experience, for example, when she was in her lover's arms. But director Herbert Brenson, for her part of the time when her pet dog was killed by an auto. Through this device Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production Brenson made clever suggestions for "substitute emotions."

July 13—Betty Hutton in "Big Kill-Ing" at the Metropolitan.
July 15—"Ransome" at the Keith-Albee Boston.
July 16—Ramon Novarro in "A Certain Young Man" at Low's State.
July 20—Betty Daniels in "Hot Nuts" at the Metropolitan.
July 22—Arthur Lake in "Stop That Man" at the Keith-Albee Boston.
July 23—William Haines in "Telling the World" at Low's State.
July 24—"Tenderheart," with Dolores Costello, at the Olympia.

CROOK FILM DRAMA THAT WAS SILENT NOW TALKS

Clara Bow, who has been playing variations on a single role for at least a year, has changed her style completely for "Ladies of the Mob," the film now on view at the Metropolitan. Instead of abiding lingerie and making faces at the camera, Miss Bow becomes a crook and carries a gun. She also goes to jail, but that seems a mere whim of the scenario writer.

The latter gentleman, incidentally, has not several rather startling situations amidst the underworld melodrama, and some of them badly miss the mark. "Ladies of the Mob" is another phantasy out of the film that followed the (ultra) course of "Underworld," first and best of the gangland dramas, and given a real part to play. Miss Bow does pretty well by it. She is never a great actress, but she does manage to become a good one. Richard Arlen, the hero, redoubles all his past performances, and Helen Lynch and Mary Alden give the extra close by for acting heroes.

For stage diversion, the Metropolitan introduces Frank Cambria's production of "West Point Days," which Dave Stanger's tunes is to give the colorful show. A number of good singers perform, there is a stage band and for ensemble work, the Gumbo-Hall girls do nobly. Also on the bill are a "Shut 'em" shorties, and the Shorty film, organ solo, and the usual variety of entertainment are also offered.

NORUMBEGA PARK Jerry and Josephine Martin, a pair of daring and clever trapeze artists, are the feature attraction this week at Norumbega Park, where they will give two performances daily in the natural amphitheater. Picture matinee and the one-nighter and various amusements and diversions complete an attractive list for the Charles River resort.

BOWDWIN BILL "Ransome" featuring Dolores Del Rio, will be the main attraction on this week's program at the Bowdoin Square Theater, beginning Monday. "Rinsing Up Father," from the comic strip by Lou Folsom, is the main feature. The picture, Vaudeville and smaller films are included. The usual Sunday concert begins at 3 o'clock.

THE GRIP THAT COUNTS The hands have it. Nils Asther wraps Lorena Young into professed embraces and, apparently, that action everything in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" at Low's Orpheum.

Olympic Tryouts Come to Close in Stadium

AND A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM. Frank Wykoff, Glendale, California, high school runner showed his heels to the greatest sprinters in the country in the Olympic tryouts at the Harvard Stadium. This remarkable photo shows the final of the 100-metres dash which Wykoff won with Bob McAllister, second; Hank Russell, third; Claude Bracey, fourth; Jimmy Quinn, fifth, and Jackson Scholz, sixth.

TRAGEDY. Only one accident marred the opening day of the Olympic tryouts, but it was a costly one as it robbed the American team of the services of George Simpson, star Ohio State sprinter. The camera caught him just as he collapsed after pulling a tendon in a 100-metres semifinal.

GREATEST PERFORMANCE on the first day of the Olympic tryouts was turned in by J. Ross Nichols of Stanford University who equalled the world's record of 14 4-5 seconds in the 110-metres hurdles semifinals.

JUMP IN. the water's fine, the boys who competed in the 3000-metres steeplechase apparently thought so from the way they hopped over the biggest obstacle into a large pool of water at the Stadium. This is a photo of the second heat and shows Leonard Hahn, leading, with Willie Harrison second.

UNICORN VICTOR. Arthur W. Sager of the Boston Athletic Association finished first in the qualifying round of the javelin throw with a toss of a few inches in excess of 200 feet. (Staff Photo)

AMERICA'S HOPE in the Olympic middle distance runs. Lloyd Hahn of the R. A. A. is shown running away with his heat in the 800-metres trials. He won in 1 minute, 53.1-5 seconds without extending himself.

BE SHORT WITH PESTS

By LUTY LOWELL.

HERES A letter from a gentleman who claims to have solved the problem of those who wish to work and can't because their friends won't let them.

"Dear Miss Lowell:

"What's all the rumour about the hangers-on? Why you and I should figure out a way of letting them sweat away hands me a laugh, for it looks to me like a lot of tobacco money.

"Don't think I'm one who doesn't know a thing or two. I've a little nest of money, and I've a good office, too, try to make somebody else think different.

"Not that a lot of those life Wits I don't really round up the chains lifted against the wall and the end of cigarette smoke.

"I didn't bother at first until I saw they had come to stay. After that made them a speech one rainy afternoon.

"From now on," said I to them at the time, "this is my office. This is my space in this ballroom rents at $100 a month. And as long as I pay are welcome to sit round the corner where there's a pool room and plenty of other things. The rest of you gentlemen of leisure, please, show the door. And with this, I said, I turned my back on them."

THE DAILY DIZZY

"That's all there was to it, Miss Lowell. Business went on as usual and if anybody's feelings were hurt, he probably was someone I was better off without."

"Talk up to 'em—that's my good advice. And don't waste time arguing over their sore points."

"BILL."

Well, this is one way of clearing the workshop. Though whether it's the best way I'm sure I don't know. But do YOU think about it?
